POST POLIO SYNDROME – a challenge of today

European Polio Union

- An umbrella organization for polio organizations in Europe

60 percent of all people who have had Polio will develop Post Polio Syndrome. This concerns approximately 700,000 Europeans. EPU strives for all Europeans with Post Polio Syndrome to have the best possibilities to lead full active, independent and integrated lives.

Our objectives are:

- Encourage coordinated research about Post Polio Syndrome
- Create an international web site for data in relation to polio and Post Polio Syndrome
- Produce a validated information bank of positive help to arrest the deterioration of people with Post Polio Syndrom
- Campaign to ensure the need for continued polio-vaccination programs

WELCOME

The European Polio Union (EPU) welcomes you to the European Post Polio conference in Copenhagen. EPU wishes with this conference to bring focus on the challenges polio survivors all over the world meet, when they later in life experience pain and a decrease in muscle strength and functional capacity. This conference invites the leading researchers and experts in the field of post polio syndrome, and the conference will give health care professionals a possibility to exchange new research results and to debate relevant topics on a professional level and hopefully spread the knowledge about the problems of polio survivors to the health sector in their countries. We also wish to give polio survivors a possibility to achieve and exchange new knowledge on assessment, treatment and coping and to increase the awareness of post polio syndrome in the political systems.

TARGET GROUP

- Health care professionals: Researchers, specialists in rehabilitation medicine, neurologists and other doctors, physical therapists, occupational therapists, nurses, psychologists, social advisors, orthotists or other professionals, who are involved with or treat polio survivors
- Polio survivors and their relatives

PROGRAMME

DIVIDED SESSIONS FOR POLIO SURVIVORS AND PROFESSIONALS

Some of the sessions at the conference will be primarily for polio survivors or primarily for health care professionals. It will mainly be the same topics in the track for polio survivors and for the health care professionals. The purpose of the division is, that we want the information for polio survivors to be held in an understandable language for non professionals. These sessions will be translated in to Danish, French and German. The sessions for health care professionals will be in a medical language and the sessions will give the professionals an opportunity to discuss and exchange knowledge on a professional level. The sessions for health care professionals will be held in English only.

The programme may change because of unforeseen incidents.

VIDEOS

Videos from speeches in the track primarily for polio survivors will be available on www.informed-scientist.org and through a link on the conference website (www.polioconference.com) and from EPUs website (www.europeanpolio.eu) two weeks after the conference.

FILM:

The EPIDEMIC – I don't remember anything, but I'll never forget

THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 1st 2011 / 16.40 – 17.40 /

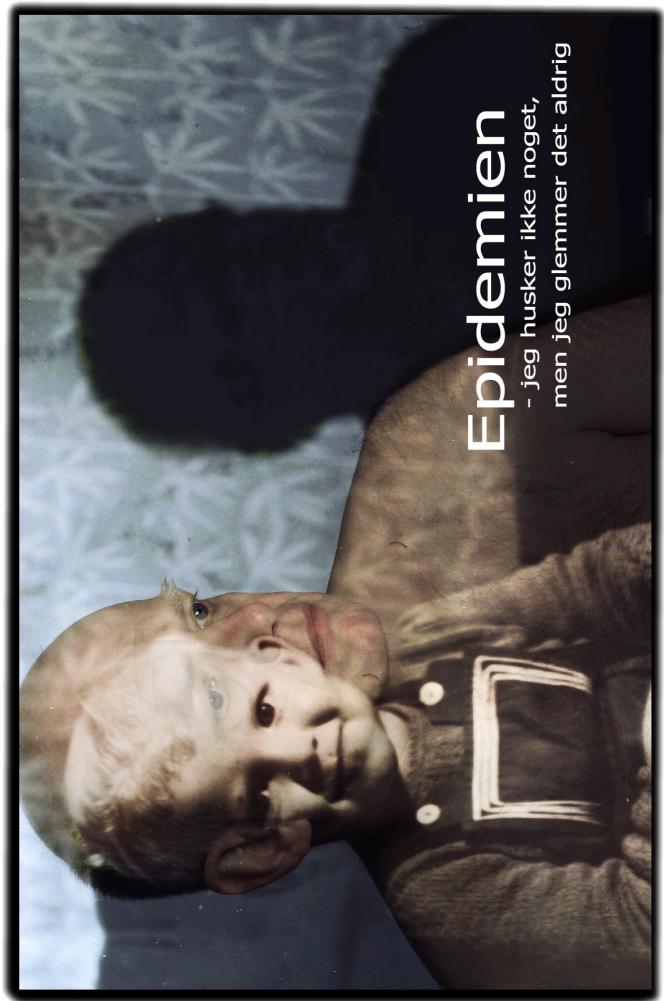

Location: Lake Geneva, 2nd floor

In 1952 Denmark was in the throes of a polio epidemic. More than 6,000 people caught the disease, most of them children. Niels Frandsen, now a film director, was one year old when his hips and legs were affected. In this poetic film essay he returns to the fateful period that he cannot remember, but will never forget. His parents, his sister, and archive footage help him to furnish words and images for a personal account that is also a historical record. Today polio has been eradicated from Denmark, but several thousand people still live with the ravages it caused. The film has won several prizes all over the world.

The film director Niels Frandsen will present the film and he will be ready for questions and debate after the screening.

LANGUAGE

The film is in Danish with English subtitles. The film can be shown with other language subtitles after the English version, depending on which nationalities are present.
